Earth Friendly Products Boosts Economy Internally

Over One Hundred Thousand Given to Employees to Assist During Current Economic Crisis

Garden Grove, CA – June 20, 2008 – On June 6, 2008 nearly 200 employees at Earth Friendly Products received a memo from upper management that was sure to brighten their day. The EFP Stimulus Check memo, from Van Vlahakis, CEO; John Vlahakis, President; and Kelly Vlahakis-Hanks, Vice President of Media Relations, stated that management wanted to assist everyone during the current economic situation of rising gas, food and other prices, and included an extra paycheck within each employee's weekly payroll.

According to mapquest.com, prices for regular gas at some California gas stations has reached as high as $4.54 per gallon, which has employees at Earth Friendly Products' Garden Grove, CA headquarters feeling the heat. Employees at the Winnetka, IL location are paying as high as $4.46 per gallon, Opa Locka, FL $4.10 per gallon and Westwood, NJ $3.98 per gallon.

"The EFP Stimulus Check was our way of thanking our loyal employees and giving them an extra boost so they may, for a short time, feel less pressure from rising prices. So many families have had to cut back on their lifestyle just to make it through these economic conditions," commented Earth Friendly Products' CEO, Van Vlahakis. "Every day I read about another commodity going up in price and I felt it was time to give our employees a little good news. We're hoping our employees will use their stimulus checks' to help boost their local economy."
